

Drive global understanding with quality translations

SDL Translation Services

As your business expands globally, it's important to connect with audiences in their native language.

Imperfect translations can have a negative effect on the credibility of your content and your brand. A consistent, quality message across all languages protects your brand reputation and delivers a great customer experience. How you approach translation can make all the difference.

Consistency, knowledge retention and value

SDL's unique in-house translator staffing model provides unparalleled control over quality. By using the same teams across projects and product lines, continuity and knowledge are retained and our linguists become experts in your brand, terminology and tone of voice.

A spectrum of translation options

SDL provides a wide spectrum of translation services to fit your needs.

Translation

Professional human translation, contributing essential linguistic, cultural and subject matter proficiency.

Specialized Translation

With expertise in the highly-regulated Insurance, Finance, Medical Device, Pharmaceutical and Legal industries, our linguists ensure all translations meet regulatory compliance and industry-specific quality requirements.

Transcreation

Create a recognizable global voice that resonates with your audiences in every language. Our transcreation experts adapt your brand communications both culturally and linguistically to suit the market – not just the language.

Post-editing

Translate the content volumes your customers are demanding with machine translation post-editing. Certified linguists edit and revise pre-translated text to achieve human-level quality faster and cost-effectively.

Interpretation

Facilitate conversations between individuals and audiences who speak different languages. Professional interpreters help you understand a conversation and be understood on a business trip or in a meeting, webcast, event, audit or training.

Why SDL Translation Services?

Quality that resonates in every language

For global audiences to understand your content, you need to localize it. But translation is more than converting text into another language. Professional translation contributes essential linguistic, cultural and subject matter knowledge that results in a finished product that seems like it was created specifically for each market.

Native experts

SDL is the only language service provider (LSP) to employ over 1,400 in-house linguists. All are native speakers who live in-country and work from the top 30 global translation markets. We augment our in-house translator pool with more than 17,000 freelance resources for scalability and to provide additional subject matter knowledge.

A smart centralized approach

Like choosing the right translators, the right process also matters. Our centralized and standardized approach ensures your translations follow a repeatable ISO-certified process so your content remains consistent across all languages.

Greater efficiency

SDL translation productivity tools are the industry's most popular. All of our translators are proficient at using them for greater accuracy and efficiency when sharing translation memories and terminology or post-editing machine translated output.

Better process for better quality

SDL adheres to the highest quality standards and all translations are reviewed for accuracy and flow. Every language is assigned a lead translator who oversees and trains all other linguists to ensure the quality of your translations. This minimizes project workflow risks, reduces translation time and improves consistency across your projects and products.

Trust us with your translation needs

Quality, cost-effective translations

Fast and reliable turnaround times

Local customer service across the globe

25+ years of experience with the world's biggest brands

1,400+ in-house linguists with specialized industry knowledge

17,000+ freelance translators provide scalability

Innovative, customized solutions for every translation need

To learn more visit

sdl.com/sdltranslationservices